Introduced by General Cigar in its current form in the United States in 1971, this is an exceptionally consistent cigar, made with Connecticut Shade wrappers that have been aged for at least three years. The cigar has a silky feel to the hand and has a taste which is only found in a Macanudo. Most sizes are offered in boxes of 25, except for the Ascots (tins of 10), Crystal (box of 8), Caviar (50), Court (30), Duke of Wellington (13), Miniature (8), Thames (20) and Prince Philip (10). Although originally developed and made for many years in Jamaica, all Macanudo production finally shifted to the Dominican Republic in October 2000.

This medium-to-full-bodied, box-pressed brand was introduced in 1997 and is now produced by Cigars by Santa Clara. It offers a Nicaraguan shade-grown Habana 2000 wrapper, offered in all-cedar boxes of 25. The Parejo Trios is presented in a nine-comb triangular cabinet offering nine packs of three Parejos tied together! The newer Maduro blend features a Costa Rican wrapper and also presents a full-bodied flavor. A High Octane series was introduced in 2002 and is stronger than the standard blend. It is available in "trios" in the Churchill, Parejo, Robusto and Toro sizes.

The coffee-infused line offers a choice of Inter-Continental (barrel-cured), Kenyan (bold roast), Nicaraguan (medium) or Colombian (light) influence in a mild-to-medium-bodied small cigar introduced in 2002 by Drew Estate with a Indonesian wrapper.

MEDINA

This famous name in cigars is relatively young, as the brand was originated in 1935 in Cuba. Today's Dominican version, introduced in 1995 and continuously updated, offers outstanding craftsmanship and a slow-burning, medium-to-heavy-bodied smoke whose obvious quality is the lasting impression. It is presented in the familiar yellow box in quantities of 25 cigars per box for all sizes except the Grande and Memories (10s) and the Habanitos (8s). Most sizes are also offered in handy pocket-packs of three, four or five cigars each.

There are cigars, and there is the art of the cigar. Moore & Bode cigars are among the foremost expositions of the roller's art, expressed in the highest possible quality of construction. Two series of identical shapes are made; the Miami Blend (introduced 1990) is a mild-to-medium bodied cigar, while the Flamboyant Blend (1995) is medium. In 1998, the Flamboyant Dark wrapper debuted, in five sizes, with a medium-to-heavy body.

natural wrappers from Connecticut seed (grown in Nicaragua) or maduro-wrapped shapes featuring leaves from Honduras. In maduro shade, this is a medium-to-full-bodied cigar, offered in boxes or bundles of 25 cigars each. The natural-wrapped shapes are mild-to-medium in strength. The Sweet Panatela is dipped in sugar syrup at the end only, while the Corona and Linda are also available in a sweetened style.

The Flavors style is made with short-filler Dominican tobaccos and has an Indonesian wrapper and Honduran binder. It is mild and offered in Anise, Amaretto, chocolate, cherry, coffee, coconut, cinnamon, honey, mango, peach, rum, raspberry and vanilla.
